Just Escaped.

W. H. Miller, the liveryman, missed trouble by about a foot, actual measurement, recently. He had a paint shop on the lot recently purchased by Mrs. Elledge and he concluded to move it to his own lot on North State street. It happened that the building was large enough to come under the ordinance regulating the building and moving of wooden structures and, as Mr. Miller's lot was just inside the fire limits, the citizens were anxiously waiting to see what would be the outcome. The lot adjoining Mr. Miller's land was vacant and so he rented a portion of it and now has his paint shop just outside the fire limits, thus avoiding trouble.

Misplaced Headgear.

Auditor Caughey stepped into the board rooms Wednesday to hear Attorneys Ruddock and Preston argue pro and con on the horticultural commission. When he started out he picked up the only hat left and came near smothering when he tried to put it on his head, as the tile slipped down and rested on his shoulders. After being rescued by friends he explained that sometimes his head was small in the morning but never too large. He soon met John Ruddock who was wearing a scared look, carrying his hat in his hand and stroking his poll. John's fears were soon allayed as it was discovered that some practical joker had changed their hats around.

JAP FISHERMAN PAYS HIS FINE

Washumara Yokhamia was arrested by Game Warden Ornbaun Wednesday for having trout in his possession out of season, and Judge Crockett imposed a fine of $30, which the little brown man produced from the depths of his pocket in gold. The Jap had been fishing near the asylum bridge and taken a fine mess of trout. Having them strung on a stick he mounted his bicycle and started for town, not suspecting that he had committed a gross violation of the game laws. Al Stohl, who had been across the river inspecting some hop roots, noticed the fisherman and trailed him to town, where he hunted up Mr. Ornbaun. The gentleman started out for the Japanese quarter and found Yokhamia entering the washhouse. He espied the officers and tried to get away but Ornbaun finally caught sight of him just as he was trying to get his name through a side door and slammed the door on it. The Jap claimed to be unable to understand English and stated through an interpreter that he had purchased the fish from a white boy. Judge Crockett refused to reduce the price of justice and the culprit departed minus three months' wages and his fish, but with all his name.

Working for Mercantile Co.

Julius Roller has accepted a position with the Ukiah Mercantile company and will now be found at their store in this city. Mr. Roller is a firstclass furniture man, having been engaged in the furniture business here for a number of years until failing health caused him to dispose of his store about a year and a half ago. His health having improved he is now able to take an active part in business circles and will be pleased to meet his former patrons and friends.

Enlarging Their Store.

Jameson Bros. are having a forty-foot brick addition built on the rear of their stores. Their increasing business has compelled them to enlarge their quarters. The new portion will be used as a store room for a while. It will be connected with the present stores by large archways.

"What I Would Do With $20."

By EDITH MAHURIN.

If anyone should make me a present of twenty dollars now, I would have it put in a savings bank, with interest, until I had finished my grammar and high school education which I expect to do in about five more years.

I would then work one year, saving all of my wages that I could and all the money that I could earn in my vacations during my high school education. After I had drawn my money from the bank and with the money I had saved I would, as far as it were possible, pay my expenses at some university which I hope to attend.

OUR HOP ROOTS ARE VALUABLE

The good price of hops has brought to light another industry; that of gathering hop roots. There is a good demand for all the roots at from $4 to $6 a thousand, most of the local product having been purchased by C. C. Donovan, of Santa Rosa, through the agency of F. C. Albertson. Al Stahl, of Santa Rosa, has been in town for several days inspecting the shipments and grading them. Monday 74,000 were shipped to Sacramento from the Lew Ruddock ranch and other shipments are following daily. The roots are gathered and tied in bunches of 100 and shipped in sacks holding about 2000 each. Seventy-five cents a thousand is paid for gathering, counting and tieing them. Mr. Albertson states that about 2,500,000 roots will be shipped this year. This is a genuine clean up to the hop men, as heretofore what roots were weeded from the hills and not used for planting locally were thrown away. The peculiar hardiness and freedom from disease of the Mendocino county hop make the roots the most valuable on the market.

Cattle Notes.

Edwards Brothers report having purchased 125 head of fine mutton sheep from Dan English, the Round valley cattle king. They were brought down by Doll Edwards and Mr. English and will be shipped to Miller & Lux. They also purchased twenty-five head of prime beef cattle from J. S. Rohrbough which will arrive on the 15th.

Given Six Years.

Dan Kelly, the escaped convict, who was recaptured last week near Covelo, appeared before Judge White last Friday morning and plead guilty to charges of embezzlement and burglary. He was sentenced to four years on the first count and two years on the second and was taken to San Quentin Saturday morning by Constable Lynch.

Want New Road to Boonville.

At the mass meeting of citizens called Tuesday night, the proposition of building a wagon road up Robinson creek to Boonville was discussed and T. J. Weldon, J. W. Preston and Henry Marks appointed a committee to present the matter to the board of supervisors.

Weather Clerk Sick.

Dr. McCowen reports having been down with the grip for the past month and therefore unable to give strict attention to weather business. He promises a rain just as soon as he recovers enough to be able to work full time.

Man Killed at Caspar

Coroner Taylor received word this week that Michael Leek had been killed in the Caspar woods but could not obtain any further particulars.

Wedding Tour In Auto.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Middleton and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Brown spent Monday and Tuesday in town on their wedding tour. The two couples were married in Oakland recently and are making their wedding trip in a large gasoline automobile. Mr. Middleton is the son of Charles Middleton, a prominent lumberman and stockholder in the Northwestern Redwood company at Willits, and is a salesman for the Auto Car company. The car in which the trip was made has been in the service over a year and a half and has made over 20,000 miles. They report the roads between here and Cloverdale in a poor condition for automobiles.

Teacher's Institute

Superintendent of Schools Barbee has set May 2 as the date of the commencement of teacher's institute and it will be held in the court house in this city. He has arranged for addresses by Prof. F. H. Bunker of the San Francisco state normal, Superintendent Ames of Napa and Mrs. L. V. Sweesey, superintendent of music of the Berkeley schools. He expects to be able to secure Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the state university but has not made definite arrangements.

Express Office Moved.

Express Agent Cheesebro reports that he has leased the Van Dusen building west of Weinmann's tailor shop and will move the office today. The office has been located in Kent's store for several months past.

AUTOMOBILE SCARES HORSE

Tom Whalen and C. Mahoney, two genial deputy sheriffs of San Francisco, had a smashup Monday night that came near resulting seriously, on their return trip from the state hospital where they had been to deliver an insane man. The gentlemen were driving home in one of J. H Smith's surreys when they neared the railroad crossing, and, not knowing that there were any automobiles in town, paid no attention to the headlights they saw approaching. W. H Middleton's machine came up to them just as they reached the culvert just beyond the crossing and the performance commenced. Not knowing the narrowness of the culvert Whalen attempted to turn out but instead turned over. Mr. Middleton gathered the unfortunate gentlemen in and brought them back to town. Mahoney was uninjured, but Whalen had received a slight scalp wound. The horses were uninjured but the shafts of the surrey were broken out and had it not been a very solid vehicle would probably now be reposing on the scrap heap. Sheriff Smith stated, when interviewed, that he thought his horses and rigs safe when he got Kelly out of the county, but he has now changed his mind.

Ill In San Francisco

H. McKenzie, a wellknown contractor, of Mendocino, was taken seriously ill with pneumonia in San Francisco a few weeks ago and was taken to the Waldeck hospital for treatment. He is now well on the road to recovery after lying at death's door for some time. Mr. McKenzie was in the city to meet his brother, who is the superintendent for a large development company in Mexico, and who has just returned from a business trip to South America. The brother remained in the city during Mr. McKenzie's illness.

Off For Vallejo.

Col. Marks, Capt. Kent, Lieutenant Lucas, Sir Knight Davidson and several other members of Schaffner company, U. R. K. P., leave tomorrow morning for Vallejo to participate in the installation of officers of that company.

Will Bore for Water and Oil.

Messrs. Wakefield and Lassell, two oil well borers, are in town and have contracts to bore on several ranches for artesian water. They also contemplate trying to interest the stockholders of the Wurtenberg oil well in making another trial. These gentlemen have had experience in most of the leading oil fields and have been very successful.

Improvement at Hoffman's.

C. Hoffman is making a number of changes in his store this week. The gallery in the dry goods department is being extended entirely around the room, giving much more room to dispose of stock. The show windows in front are being modernized and will be capable of a much better display of late styles. About three feet is being cut from the top and a deck put in that will admit of the display of large articles.

FIND BOTTLE OF OLD WINE

In preparing to start the foundation to their store last week, Jameson Brothers found a great many articles under the platform which was torn up. Knives and small coins and scissors constituted the bulk of their discovery, with a quart bottle of wine.

It seems that there is a cellar under the building that has long been forgotten, and just outside of a small window the bottle of wine was sitting, covered with cobwebs and dust of years. Several experts were immediately called and the wine proved to be of the choicest vintage. It had probably been placed there, so say the experts, at least twenty years ago. George and Jim Jamison both state that a thorough search has failed to unearth any more of the grape juice.

Lucas Bros., Lumber Yard.

A visit to Lucas Brothers' lumber yard reveals the fact that business in building circles is very active, and Rufus Lucas states that in the neighborhood of 40,000 feet of lumber a month is being disposed of. The yard is located near the depot and is one of the most convenient on the coast, being easily approached by teams hauling the lumber, and having a switch the entire length in order that the lumber may be easily unloaded from the cars. The yard covers over two acres and has a capacity of about 2,000,000 on the sills. The different grades of rough lumber are piled on the sills in four foot sections and graded as to lengths and other dimensions. For the flooring, rustic and other dressed lumber there are two sheds each 80x20 feet with a covered driveway between. All of the lumber handled is cut at the mills of the Northwestern Redwood company at Willits, excepting the Oregon pine flooring which is shipped direct from Astoria. The firm also intends handling a complete line of doors and windows in the near future.

Old Wound Caused Trouble.

Charles Biggers was brought down from Covelo this week by his brother, Arthur and his parents to have an operation performed to relieve a pressure on his brain. The young fellow had been acting queerly for some time and as he fell over a bluff at Navarro about fourteen years ago sustaining quite a severe injury it was supposed this was the cause of his trouble. His skull was trepaned Tuesday and he is now reported to be doing nicely. Immediately after the operation he commenced talking about things that occurred on the day of his accident, which is said to be a favorable indication.

Innocents Abroad.

Marcus Gibson and Dolly Edwards visited John Day's last Sunday and inspected the work on the tunnel. They report having spent Saturday night at Potter and having enjoyed the time of their lives at the Grangers' ball.

MAN KILLED IN WILLITS MILL

Arendt Nelson, a laborer employed at the mills of the Northwestern Redwood company at Willits, was caught in the shafting and killed last Friday afternoon. His right arm was pulled from the body, presumably by his making an effort to grab something to pull himself loose. His head was crushed and scarcely a bone in his body was unbroken. At the coroner's inquest held by Justice Kenworthy a verdict of death due to his own carelessness was reached. The deceased was twenty-seven years old and a native of Michigan. This is the first man that has ever been killed in the Northwestern Redwood company's mill, accidents among their employees having been remarkably few.

Telegraph Operator in Trouble.

W. F. Wade, alias W. J. Kelly, was arrested October 17th on a charge of attempted rape in San Francisco and on February 28 was sentenced to ten years at Folsom. Wade was, for a number of years, operator for the Western Union Telegraph company at Cahto, having left there about four years ago. It is understood that he had been arrested on a similar charge at Salem, Oregon, several years ago.

To Prosecute Murder Charge.

District Attorney Robert Duncan and Court Reporter Tucker left Wednesday for Fort Bragg. Mr. Duncan will represent the county in the preliminary examination today in the cases of Luchessi, Pogetta and Bozzolo charged with the murder of Paulo Tolomei.

MILTON WELLER COMMITS SUICIDE

Word has just reached town that Milt Weller has shot himself at his residence south of town. The deceased had been mentally deranged for some time but was thought to be improving.

The Difference.

Thursday morning of last week the temperature was 10 above zero and the day was fair. Friday was the same. Saturday morning it was 24 above and snowing but cleared up during the forenoon. It continued mild during the day. Sunday it was 12 above and fair. The day was mild, the temperature reaching 38 above. Monday morning it was 20 above and windy but fair. During the night a little snow had fallen and a very high wind used it to block the roads quite badly. Tuesday morning it was 10 above and cloudy. The day was not very cold. Wednesday morning was two degrees warmer and cloudy. We have reason to be thankful that the last week of February passed without the blizzard that it has brought several times.

The above clipping was handed in by Rev. Houston and is taken from his old home paper, the Observer, published in the southern part of Maine. In comparison Californians are now enjoying summer weather and everyone is wearing summer clothes. The trees are leaving out and the fruit trees are in bloom and no snow has fallen here this winter.

Newspaper for Upperlake

J. L. Allison, who formerly published the Lakeport Press, was in Upperlake a short time ago trying to get the business men of that place to encourage the establishment of a paper there by him. It is said the proposition is meeting with favor. Mr. Allison is now proprietor of the Colusa Herald, and it is his intention to move the plant to Upperlake.

An Excellent Program.

All who heard the excellent program at the Christian church on last Thursday evening felt themselves very fortunate in being able to attend so pleasant an entertainment. Every number was well received by an unusually large and appreciative audience. The ladies of the church desire to sincerely thank all those who so kindly took part, and hope to have another good program ready for the first Thursday in May.

smoke; that for the moment it was necessary to retire to Fort Pitt, and that each family might take only such household implements and extra clothing as they could carry in their arms.

The day wore away in preparation for the march. I had nothing to prepare. I had lost my rifle and ammunition when a prisoner among the Cayugas, and my spare clothing and provisions when Boyd's inn was burned. Fortunately, Boyd had buckled on my money belt for safe keeping, and the honest old man delivered it to me, condoling with me for the loss of my clothing and food and never a word of complaint for his own loss of home and bed and everything he owned in the world, nor would he accept a shilling from me to aid him toward a new beginning in life.

One thing that Mount told me aroused my anger and contempt. There was now not a Tory left among Cresap's people. All had fled when Greathouse fled, proving clearly that if all had not aided in the slaughter of Logan's children they at least had been informed of the plot and had probably been warned that the murderous deed would be laid at Tory doors.

Toward dusk our scouts began to come in, one by one, with sad stories concerning the outlying settlements and lonely farms. One of them vowed that the Oneidas had joined in; and he exhibited a moccasin that he had found as proof, but when I saw the moccasin I knew it to be Mohawk, and it troubled me greatly, yet I did not inform Cresap, because I could not believe our Mohawks had risen.

At 9 o'clock the postern was opened quietly, and the first detachment of riflemen left the fort, stealing out into the starlight, weapons at a trail. When the scouts returned to say that the coast was clear the column started in perfect silence.

When the rear guard had disappeared in the darkness Cresap, Mount, Cade Renard and I bolted the gates, drew up the drawbridge, locked it and dropped the keys into the moat. Then Cresap and Mount ran across the parade toward the magazine, while we tied a knotted rope to the southern parapet and shook it free so that it hung to the edge of the counterscarp below.

Presently Mount came hurrying back across the parade and up the scarp to where we stood, bidding us hasten, for the fuse was afire and might burn more quickly than we expected.

Down the rope, hand over hand, tumbled the Weasel, and then Mount motioned me to go. Down I scrambled, followed by Mount and Cresap, and we all ran as though the Six Nations were at our heels. After ten minutes at top speed we joined the rear guard and fell in with the major, panting. A roar shook the solid forest; a crimson flame shot up to the stars; then thunderous darkness buried us.

"Now that the fort's exploded, look out for the Iroquois," said Mount, steadying his voice with an effort.

Cresap had given me a rifle. I halted to load it, then ran on to join Mount and Renard. We plodded on in silence for awhile. Presently Mount asked me what I meant to do in Pittsburg.

"I mean to see Lord Dunmore," I replied quietly.

Mount pretended to fear for his lordship's scalp, but I was in no humor for jesting and said no more. I had been looking ahead along the line of wagons, where a lanthorn was glimmering, and as I approached I was surprised to see a tall Indian standing beside Cresap, muffled to the chin in his blanket.

"Cardigan," said Cresap, "my scouts found this Indian walking ahead in the trail all alone. He made no resistance, and they brought him in. He seems to be foolish or simple minded. I can't make him out. You see he is unarmed. What is he?"

"This man is a Cayuga and a chief," I said in a low voice.

"Speak to him," said Cresap. "He appears not to understand me. I speak only Tuscarora, and that badly."

I looked at the silent Cayuga and made the sign of brotherhood. His dull eyes regarded me steadily.

"Brother," I said, "by the cinders on your brow you mourn for the dead."

"I mourn," he replied simply.

"A son?"

"A family. I am Logan."

Shocked, I gazed in pity on the stern, noble visage. So this was Logan, the wretched man bereft of all his loved ones by Greathouse!

I turned quietly to Cresap.

"This is the great Cayuga chief Logan, whose children were murdered," I said.

"Ask him where he journeys."

"Where do you journey, brother?" I asked gently.

"I go to Fort Pitt," he answered, without emotion.

"To ask justice?"

"To ask it."

"God grant you justice," I said gravely.

To Cresap I said, "He seeks justice at Fort Pitt from Lord Dunmore."

"Bid him come with us," replied Cresap soberly.

I took Logan by the hand and led him into a space behind the wagons. Here we waited in silence until the slow convoy moved, and then we followed as mourners follow a casket to the grave of all their hopes.

Hour after hour we journeyed unmolested. The stars faded, but it was not yet dawn when a far voice cried in the darkness and a light moved, and we knew that the warders of the fortress were hailing our vanguard at the gates of Pittsburg.

The next morning I woke in a flood of brightest sunshine which poured over the walls of my chamber and bathed the sweet lavender scented sheets on my bed.

This lodging whither Mount and Renard had piloted me when our convoy passed the ramparts of Fortress Pitt was an inn called the Virginia Arms, a most clean and respectable hostelry, though sometimes suspected as a trysting place for rebels. James Rolfe, a Boston man, was our host, a thin edged, mottled, shrewd eyed fellow.

The winding of a brass horn brought me out of my concealment to peep down into the street, where people were flocking around a public crier, who stood on a horse block blowing his horn.

"Attention! Attention!" he cried, unfolding a paper, and presently commenced to read his news to the crowd:

"By permission of the Right Hon. Earl of Dunmore, governor of Virginia. Four days' sport on Roanoke plain. The Colonial club offering prizes of £100 and £50; the Richmond club offering two purses of £50. Attention! Sport on the Roanoke, an even and delightsome plain, most sweet and pleasant. Today the Nobleman's and Gentleman's purse of £50, free for any horse except Dr. Connolly's Scimitar, who won the plate last season. Second, a silver cup worth £12. Tuesday, County Subscription purse of £50.

"God save the king!"

I turned back into the room and began my toilet. How strange to find this town, undisturbed in its rural pleasures, busy about its own affairs, while scarce a night's journey to the north the frontier was in ashes and the dead lay in the charred embers of their own doorsills!

How strange to look out on the peace of these sunny streets, with the cinders of Cresap's camp still clinging to my hunting shirt, with my own blood caking the sore on my arm where a Cayuga child had thrust a lighted pine splinter into my flesh! Strange—aye, astonishing—that these people here behind their fortress, their blockhouses, their earthworks and stockades, should forget those who dwelt beyond the gates, wresting the dark soil inch by inch from the giant pines of the wilderness!

Somber thoughts filled me. I had a hard role to play before Lord Dunmore. I had a harder role to act before Silver Heels if she were still here in Pittsburg.

It gave me no pleasure to find myself so near her. The attitude she had assumed toward me that last night in Johnstown had hurt enough to leave a scar. But when scars appear wounds are healed, and so was mine. It was true, I had never loved her as men love sweethearts. Her sudden and amazing appearance as a woman had aroused my curiosity, her popularity and beauty my jealousy. It was hurt pride that tempered me when the playfellow I had tolerated and protected and tormented at my pleasure tormented, tolerated and finally ignored me.

ARE YOU BILIOUS? Sick, Feverish,

Take JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

BARRED FROM MORMON CHURCH

Former United States Senator Declared Guilty of Apostacy.

Salt Lake, March 7.—Former United States Senator Frank J. Cannon has been disfellowshipped from the Mormon church for "Unchristianlike conduct and apostacy." Mr. Cannon has been an elder of the church. This action of the church authorities, which has just been announced, followed a hearing in the city of Ogden before the local bishopric, with whom charges had been preferred against Elder Cannon, who is editor of the Salt Lake Tribune.

The charges were based on editorial utterances of the Tribune, including "an address to the earthly king of the kingdom of God." Mr. Cannon admitted the authorship when called before the court and reaffirmed his editorial utterances.

The official report of the proceedings state that Elder Cannon, in answer to the question, "Do you sustain Joseph F. Smith as head of the church?" replied:

"No, as President Joseph F. Smith is leaving the worship of God to the worship of mammon, and is leading the people astray."

TO EFFECT ARBITRATION.

Three American Propositions Will be Presented to Brussels Conference.

Washington, March 7.—At a meeting of members of congress belonging to the American group of interparliamentary Union for the promotion of international arbitration, Chairman Bartholdt was authorized to select and appoint delegates to the Brussels conference of the union, to be held in September. Three American propositions were agreed to be presented to the Brussels conference. These were:

An invitation to the Central and South American countries to become members of the union; the extension of jurisdiction to The Hague Arbitration court over specific matters of arbitration, through a general arbitration treaty and the formation of an international congress to formulate and negotiate such a treaty.

BILL IS INADEQUATE.

Senate Plan for Taxing Stock of National Banks Withdrawn.

Sacramento, March 6.—In the senate and assembly the bill introduced Thursday to correct a defect in the existing law so that the capital stock of national banks can be assessed was withdrawn.

This action was taken in view of the disclosures made at a meeting of the committee on revenue and taxation with state officials, bankers and a representative from the assessor's office at San Francisco, that if the bill became a law, in San Francisco alone twenty million dollars of stock of quasi corporations would escape taxation.

Against this loss there would be only $700,000 of national bank stock in that city which could be assessed under the provisions of the bill. What would apply to San Francisco would apply to the remainder of the state, though in lesser degree.

The bill was therefore withdrawn and no national bank stock in this state under the recent ruling of the United States supreme court can be assessed until the next legislature frames an adequate law.

BIG STRIKE ON IN NEW YORK.

Six Thousand Men Walk Out on the Subway and Elevated Roads.

New York, March 7.—A strike of all the employes of the subway and elevated lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit company is on. The strike effects some 6000 employes of the company and also the movements of 1,100,000 daily passengers.

Every employe of the subway and "L" roads left cars and stations just before 4 o'clock last night. They quietly departed to the headquarters of their unions. Strike-breakers were rushed to the abandoned trains and stations, and an effort was made to keep traffic going.

Hundreds of police are at the stations, power houses and in the trains, and thus far the company's new men are having no difficulty in running the trains.

Couriers who were started out with the strike order as soon as it was issued, shortly after midnight, had their work cut out to carry it to every one of the thousands of men employed on the system. It was 3:20 before the couriers reached the employes in the city hall station of the Third avenue L and Brooklyn bridge station of the subway.

It is denied also, that the company was formed for the purpose of restraining interstate trade.

ANTI-BOYCOTT FAILS TO PASS

Sentiment Prevailed That Bill Would Tend to Unsettle Rather Than Settle Labor Conditions.

Sacramento, March 7.—The anti-boycott bill, fathered by Senator Ralston, was defeated when called up for final passage in the senate. Ralston spoke in advocacy of the measure, declaring that its passage would do away with both the boycott and the blacklist. He said that, in a measure, he was prompted to propose the bill by reason of the disgraceful scenes attending the restaurant strike in Sacramento two years ago. He thought that working men as well as capitalists should be free and that neither should infringe upon the rights of the other.

Senator Keane followed Ralston, opposing the bill. He declared that its passage would tend to unsettle rather than settle industrial conditions.

Senator Shortridge declared that boycotting and blacklisting have been declared unlawful by the courts; that the law is quite well established and that the Ralston bill establishes no new legal principle. Shortridge attacked the conspiracy clause of the bill and declared that the measure should be defeated.

Senator Ward of San Diego considered the bill at this time as inopportune and ill advised. Industrial disputes are being adjusted on better lines now than formerly. Conditions are growing better all the time and the passage of the measure would stimulate rather than allay dissensions.

Senator Wolfe also opined that the time was inauspicious for the passage of the proposed laws, several provisions of which he thought would be inoperative.

Senator Irish of Downieville championed the Ralston bill. He held that the principles contained in the measure were good. If the courts had laid down the law, the fact nevertheless remained that infractions of the law could not be punished unless punishment were provided for by statute.

Senator Belshaw thought that there was no necessity for the law at this time owing to the establishment of better relations between capital and labor.

Senator Markey opposed the measure as unconstitutional and unnecessary.

Senator Lukens thought the measure ought to be considered as a code bill.

Senator Welch said that the present laws cover all the provisions of the bill. The vote on the measure could do nothing more than to place the members on record.

Senator Ralston closed the debate. He declared that he was always willing to fight for the laboring men when he thought they were in the right. He told of withdrawing from a miners' meeting in San Francisco because the majority there proposed to decrease wages and resort to the blacklist. His object in offering the bill was to make plain the law as it really stands. He had no desire to injure unions, but he would prevent them from trampling on the rights of those not connected with them. Twenty states have laws against the boycott, he added. In closing Ralston intimated that some of the senators were opposing him for political purposes.

The roll was then called and the bill was defeated by 27 noes to 4 ayes. Those voting aye were Coggins, Curtin, Irish and Ralston.

One Hundred and Twenty-Six Thousand Dollars to Date.

Sacramento, March 7.—The governor has approved senate bill 882, appropriating $5000 for the contingent expenses of the senate. This is the final appropriation needed by the senate to carry it along until the day of final adjournment.

The senators' expenses for the present session, as represented by the several appropriations made by the legislature, aggregate $61,000. The senate started off with an appropriation of $11,000, provided in the general appropriation bill passed at the close of the last session.

Early in the session $30,000 was appropriated and a few weeks later another appropriation of $15,000 was made. With the appropriation just approved by the governor, the senate's contingent expenses for the present session amount to $61,000.

Assembly bills appropriating an aggregate of $65,000 have been passed for the contingent expenses of the assembly this session.

ADDITIONAL CELLS.

Each Prisoner at State Prisons to Have Cell of His Own.

Sacramento, March 7.—Provision is made for the incarceration of prisoners in separate cells at San Quentin and Folsom through bills by Senators Coggins and McKee passed in the assembly. The bills carry appropriations of nearly $500,000 to be paid in a period of six years, and provide for the erection of additional cells and other improvements at the penitentiaries.

The house also passed Olmsted's bill fixing the salaries of prison guards at $50 for the first six months, $55 for the next six months, and finally reaching a maximum of $65. The measure is a compromise for the Lynch bill, which sought to fix the salaries of the prison guards at $75, and which the governor refused to sign.

Perfumes as Disinfectants.

It is a well known fact that workers among lavender beds seldom take infectious ailments, and those engaged in the perfumery trade are singularly free from them. A good perfume in the old days was considered an excellent disinfectant. The doctors then used to carry walking sticks with silver or gold knobs. These opened with a lid, disclosing a tiny vinaigrette box, which the physician held to his nose when entering rooms containing patients ill with any infectious diseases.

Not Too Fast.

"Don't you sometimes think we are living too fast?"

"No. I used to, but I soon cured that impression. I moved out to a suburb and rode in to work every day on an accommodation train."—Exchange.

Men Mustn't Be Selfish.

A man should feel the obligation to bring gayety into the lives of all those whom he loves. The fact that the routine of the day has been dull doesn't excuse him for being glum and silent at his evening meal.—Arthur S. Pier.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
